

JET LINX ATLANTA REPORTS 2016 GROWTH IN LOCAL BASE OPERATIONS

ATLANTA (December 2016) – Jet Linx Atlanta, one of 14 Jet Linx base locations nationwide, has grown its local member base to over 100 this year with seven aircraft and plans to expand its existing fleet early next year.

“Since its inception in 2013, our Atlanta Base has grown its presence in the community mainly because of our model of operating on a local, more personalized level,” said Ron Smith, Base President of Jet Linx Atlanta. “We are proud that our intimate space provides a sense of home to our members and to the local community through our commitment to hosting numerous charity events that have brought different organizations together for a number of causes.”

The Atlanta Base operates out of two airports including its private terminal at DeKalb–Peachtree Airport (PDK) and service from the Toccoa Airport (TOC). Both provide local members with unmatched service and the convenience of having a dedicated staff assisting members with their every need for every trip.

Jet Linx is the leading provider for aircraft management services, offering a spectrum of benefits through a combination of local bases backed by a powerful national infrastructure. From aircraft acquisitions to cost-effective aircraft operation to aircraft maintenance, Jet Linx keeps both aircraft owners and potential owners based in Atlanta assured that they are receiving a best-in-the-industry experience with guaranteed revenue and savings. In addition, Jet Linx aircraft management clients in Atlanta automatically gain access to the Jet Linx Jet Card program, with no up-front membership fee required, and guaranteed aircraft availability, hourly rates and the highest standard of safety. In fact, the Jet Card program serves as a backup solution for an aircraft owner when their aircraft is on a revenue flight or down for maintenance.

Additional cost-effective differentiators within the Jet Linx Card program include round trip rates based on occupied flight time only, exclusive one-way specials as well as access to Jet Linx’s fleet of light, midsize, super midsize and heavy jets, without penalty for the upgrade.

Jet Linx concluded 2016 with more than a 20 percent increase in miles flown since last year, totaling 58 million miles since inception. Peak travel times, including the Thanksgiving season, aided in breaking previous company records, with 140 legs flown on Tuesday, Nov. 22 and 174 on Sunday, Nov. 27. On the international front, Jet Linx achieved authorization to operate in Cuba, granting Jet Card holders and aircraft owners the ability to travel to Havana and 11 other airports in Cuba upon securing the required visas.

Jet Linx is among the top one percent of all aircraft operators in the U.S., having earned an ARGUS Platinum Safety Rating, IS-BAO Stage 3 certification and the Wyvern Wingman safety rated operator designation.
